

Ex Machina is a software company with customers around the world that creates, develops and implements interactive apps for video and TV, based on a scalable, cloud-based server platform.

Over Ex Machina

At Ex Machina we create, develop and implement interactive apps and multi-screen strategies. Our clients include some of the largest broadcasters, advertisers and production companies from all around the world. They rely on Ex Machina for effective engagement solutions for TV shows, events and live streams.

We have built apps that are used by Emmy winning TV franchises with record breaking numbers. Our industry leading platform and tools allow for millions of people to play-along in real time while they watch their favorite TV show, event or live stream, without failure and at a scale that is unsurpassed in the industry.

Our company is growing and interested to meet talented people for various software development roles. At Ex Machina you'll work with some of the best developers and engineers to develop mobile apps and cloud-based platforms. We work together in flexible project teams and get things done, instead of worrying about hierarchy and politics. We have an open work space where we value authenticity, and where you can interact directly with any and all of your colleagues.

Werken bij

What we look for in candidates:

- You make a point of keeping up to date with the latest technologies
- You're familiar with or interested in learning to work with Java, Guice, Jetty, Jenkins, Maven, JUnit, MongoDB/NoSQL, various cloud services, and anything else we may throw your way!
- Consistent creation of high quality code, based on coding standards and best practices
- You're excited about the fact your work will allow millions of viewers, gamers and users to play along by bringing games, internet and TV together in new and innovative ways
- A born collaborator, you value communication and sharing knowledge. You also work well in a team setting and like to achieve common goals & objectives
- Customer focus - You put the client at the heart of your decisions
- You possess an analytical mind, are eager to learn and are always looking for new and innovative solutions
- Proficient in spoken and written Dutch and/or English

Contact

Nieuwsgierig? Houd de website van Make IT Work in de gaten om te kijken of Ex Machina ook op de volgende werkgeversmarkt aanwezig is. Neem alvast een kijkje op de website: <https://careers.exmachinagroup.tv>